WPI slides to 3.85% low of 2 years

Wholesale inflation measured by WPI eased to 3.85% in February 2023, compared to 4.73% in the previous month i.e. January 2023, while it was 13.43% in February 2022.

Highlights:

- Wholesale Price Index declined to 2 year low and the favourable base effect has been able to curtail the inflation to some extent.
- It has declined over last month also and the main reason for fall is the declining prices of crude oil and natural gas, food products.
- There has been continuous decline in Fuel and Power since July 22.
- Inflation for manufactured products was 1.94 per cent in February down from 2.99 per cent in January

Views:

1. Dip in Wholesale prices are likely to pave way for easing pressure on Corporate earnings and reduced input cost will reflect in Consumer Price Index which may also see downward trend in coming times.
2. The future outlook of the Food inflation would depend on weather related conditions and timely monsoon.
3. Going forward, there is expectations of further decline in WPI as the commodity prices continue to soften.
